As aromas of crisp Asian pear and hints of exotic flowers enter the nose you are reminded of an Alpine meadow on a warm summer day. The palate starts with lemon zest and stones from a cold mountain creek but quickly gives way to the underlying richness of caramelized crème brûlée. As the wine travels over the palate faint hints of marzipan and sandalwood dance in the background behind a touch of confectioner's sugar. This wine leaps gracefully to a mouthwatering finish that requires another sip just to confirm the experience. With structure and grace in spades this wine requires a meal of the same caliber. Utilizing the mineral component of seafood and the richness of a cream sauce could be an outstanding pairing.
